

Tim Keller and Katherine Alsdorf - How to Connect Your Work to God's Work

Theology of Work Project Steering Committee member Katherine Leary Alsdorf and her boss, Tim Keller, discuss their new book Every Good Endeavor. It's all about how to connect your work to God's work. Tim brings a great depth of theological insight into the practical realities of work. Who else could discuss Martin Luther's theology by asking, "What's the Christian way to be a pilot?" and answering, "Land the plane." According to Tim and Katherine, the Christian understanding of work begins with the affirmation that God created the world as a work of art that he invites all people to contribute to. Although work has become deeply tainted by evil and sin, God has not left us alone, but is always working to bring hope and goodness into our work. Tim offers five specific ways to connect your work to God's work, with results that make work more meaningful to you and valuable to God's kingdom.

---